

Case Brief

A 28-year-old nondiabetic, nonhypertensive housewife ,presented to the Skin Opd with asymptomatic rashes over her body increasing since last 2 months.

On examination- general survey-pallor present,
Inguinal & epitrochlear lymphnodes- enlarged and rubbery rest unremarkable

Systemic examination- unremarkable

Cutaneous examination- annular plaques present over her face and extremities.
Palms & sole- multiple discrete hyperpigmented macules , tender on deep palpation
Mucosa- split papules present over angle of mouth
Flat topped moist papules present over perianal and vuval region.

Q1. What are your differential diagnosis?

- Q2. What is your provisional diagnosis?
Q3. What is the most important History that needs to be taken?
Q4. What is your next line of management?
Q5. What is the treatment of choice of this condition?

Case Credit

Dr Ismat Ara Khan
Resident, Dermatology
Medical College Kolkata

ANSWERS

Q1. D/D of this particular case will differ as per the different morphologies of the lesions-

Annular plaque- Granuloma annulare
Tinea corporis
Annular lichen planus

Condylomata Lata
Condyloma accuminata

Oral mucosa- (split papules)
Angular cheilitis
Tongue- geographic tongue

Q2. Secondary syphilis

Q3. SEXUAL HISTORY

- Sexually active or not
- Last exposure
- Number of partners
- Unprotected sex or not
- Mode of sex
- Sexual preference

Q4. VDRL with titre

Q5. Benzathine penicillin G 2.4 mega units IM single dose divided into each buttocks (APST)